

Boot Camp

In a few words...

Master Coachs from Canada

They have coached artists, athletes, executives and thought leaders

Workshop centers on identifying the characteristics you need to work on, to become a better communicator

We don't believe in a codified language but rather in the unicity that each participant brings to the table

Objectives :

- Develop awareness of your presence
- Become aware of how you listen to others, connect Face 2 Face (F2F)
- Experience how you are perceived
- Put your best self forward

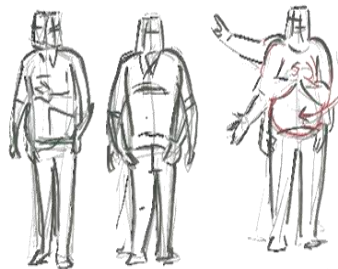

"I have attended many workshops in communication skills throughout my career, and must say I was very impressed by the Red Rabbit Project. The coaches – true artists – bring so much value to the training, and give a brand new outlook to the behaviors and manners we use to communicate. I learned a lot during this session and use these new techniques on regular basis!" Solenne M, Global Communication Director, SAP AG

Boot Camp

Actors spend their entire careers learning about themselves. It is an ongoing exploration of discovering and uncovering more and more details that help us to connect with our audiences. It is rare that most of us get this opportunity to delve into ourselves and really look at what our assets are as communicators.

This unique boot camp will allow you to experience the impact of your personal presence (unicity) to better connect with your collaborators.

Key words:

- Observer-Observed
- Self awareness and authentic listening
- Alignment of body, breath, voice and intention
- Face 2 Face connection and peripheral awareness
- Making an impact
